Smoking on Cars to be Regulated—Also the Keeping of Cows—No Cigarettes for Minors—Other Ordinances

There was one solitary spectator in the lobby when the board was called to order Monday evening, all members being present. After the reading of the minutes, an ordinance establishing the grade of Eagle Rock road was read for the third time and adopted. The ordinance prepared by City Attorney Baker, prohibiting smoking on street cars in the City of Glendale, was taken up and read for the first time, motion to do so being sustained by Messrs. Lane, Watson and White. Considerable discussion resulted, Mr. Anderson being of the opinion that it is a mistake to pass ordinances that will not be enforced. Mr. Lane thought that if there are ordinances which are not enforced, the marshall should be instructed to enforce them. The ordinance was finally referred to the city attorney to be amended so as to comply with the Los Angeles ordinance on the same subject. An ordinance amending the ordinace fixing the limits of fire district No. 1 was read for the first time, and referred to the city attorney and engineer. An ordinance requiring the installation of fire hydrants, etc., in certain business establishments was brought up, and referred to a committee consisting of Messrs. Anderson, Coker and Watson. An ordinance regulating the keeping of cows in the city was taken up and read the first time. An ordinance prohibiting the sale of cigarettes to minors was taken up. Some difference of opinion was expressed as to the age limit, Messrs. Coker and Anderson favoring seventeen years. Mr. Anderson, however, switched over to the majority, and eighteen years was adopted by a vote of four to one, and the ordinance passed first and second reading. An application from the Glendale Advertising Company for permission to erect a ten-foot billboard at Third and Isabel was referred to the public works committee. The city attorney was instructed to investigate the matter of furnishing lights on Eagle Rock road. Mr. Coker brought to the board's attention the necessity for a culvert at Third street and the Childs tract line, representing that since the improvement of the street there is no outlet for storm water accumulating on the north side of the railroad track. The matter was referred to the public works committee. The matter of running the car on Fourth street with only one man in charge was brought up. It was stated that it is the custom at night for the motorman to leave his post and collect fares. The danger of the custom was recognized by all the members of the board, and it was referred to the committee on public safety. Mr. Watson presented a statement which had been handed to him, in which the assertion was made that of the 197 names on the petition presented protesting against calling an election on the library question, last Tuesday evening, there are the names of 82 non-voters. Mr. Watson stated that he thought the matter closed, and had nothing in particular to propose. It was stated in reply that the petition only purported to be signed by "voters and taxpayers," and that the signers are such. The board took no action. An ordinance amending an ordinance fixing rates for electric power passed first and second reading.

PRESBYTERIAN SOCIAL.

The reception given by the ladies of the Presbyterian church to new members, held Friday afternoon of last week at the residence of Mrs. E. T. Byram, was a great success. There was a comparatively small attendance during the afternoon but in the evening the hospitable home was crowded with old residents and those whose arrival was more recent, the result being just what was intended, the getting together of the members of the church and congregation and others, and enabling them to get acquainted. The younger portion of the guests had a particularly jolly time in the spacious back porch where they indulged in games and other means of juvenile enjoyment. The ladies of the Aid society are to be commended for the success of the affair.

CHANTICLEER FIESTA.

Thanksgiving Day Will Be Celebrated at Long Beach in Gala Style.

Long Beach has prepared a program of entertainment for her guests on Thanksgiving Day. There will be several thrilling and pleasing free attractions and amusements going on all the afternoon and evening.

One of the big features for the afternoon will be the football game between the University of Southern California Preps and the Long Beach High School. These are two of the best teams in Southern California and are well matched for the fray. Probably the most thrilling attraction for the day will be the "Slide for Life," a new feature that has never been attempted before in this country. "Dare-Devil" Savage will perform this hazardous feat over the ocean in front of the bath house and will be well worth the time and trouble to witness.

One hundred of the most beautiful chanticleer costumes have been secured and at 7:30 p. m. the Chanticleer parade will take place on the Pike, widing up at the Majestic dancing pavilion, where the big Chanticleer ball will be held.

Two hundred dollars in cash and prizes will be given away to those participating in the various amusements.

No pains or expense will be spared in making this one of the memorable holidays for which Southern California is noted.

The Pacific Electric is making extensive preparations to care for the vast crowd that will go to Long Beach on this day and have assured them the best they have to offer.

FRUIT SHOWER.

A most pleasant surprise was given for Rev. R. O. McIntosh and wife in the Guild hall on Monday evening. While they were being entertained at dinner by Mr. and Mrs. Edgar W. Pack of the Priory, the members and friends of the mission gathered at the Guild hall, each one with some luscious fruit which only California can produce. These gifts were placed on a table daintily decorated with chrysanthemums and covered from view until the arrival of the pastor and his wife who had been summoned home by telephone. Mrs. Scott Johnson, president of the society, made the presentation and Rev. McIntosh responded in a clever speech of thanks on behalf of himself and wife. A most happy social time followed. During the short time Mr. McIntosh has been with his congregation he has done splendid work and endeared himself to the hearts of the people.

BAPTIST SOCIAL.

The Baptists will hold their regular monthly social at K. of P. hall this (Friday) evening. Everyone is cordially invited.

Mr. Robert Morris has opened a tailor shop in the frame building next Blackburn's realty office on Fourth street where he will attend to sartorial requirements of Glendale citizens.

IN CLUBDOM.

Mrs. Charlotte Perkins Gilman addressed the Friday morning club of Los Angeles today on "Our Brains and What Ails Them." Delegates to the district convention are guests at this meeting. On Tuesday next Mrs. Baurhyte, president of the district convention, and Mrs. L. C. Rice, delegate to the recent biennial held in Cincinnati, will tell the Tuesday Afternoon club of Glendale of federation work. On this afternoon members of the club are requested to bring their annual contribution of preserved fruits, clothing, or money to the Day Nursery. Mrs. Rice will receive these donations at Filger Opera house.

COUNTRY CLUB CARD PARTY.

The members of the Country club met Monday evening for the regular monthly card party. Mr. and Mrs. Charles Shadduck were host and hostess for the evening. Tables were placed for both bridge and five hundred. Mrs. Spinks and Mrs. Pulliam carried off head prizes at the bridge tables, and Mrs. Mephery and Mr. Pulliam were prize winners at five hundred. At the completion of the games refreshments were served in the dining room where at two long tables plates had been laid for forty guests.

Mr. O. H. Jones, of Cedar street, for many years in the real estate business in Los Angeles, has opened an office in the new Anderson building adjoining the postoffice, where he will handle the same line of business.

PATRONIZE HOME ESTABLISHMENTS

Among the Local Dealers—Comparison of Prices and Service—Buy at Home

In a general way every citizen of this or any other similar community knows that as a duty which he owes to his own town, as a matter of local patriotism, and really in a large spirit of selfishness, he should give his support to the home concerns by buying of them in preference to all others, service and price being reasonably satisfactory. But although knowing this fact in a large and general way, a large portion of the people fail to act upon it to a sufficient extent. This failure to help one's own people is due to thoughtlessness in a great measure, and to ignorance of local conditions and the fact that the local merchant is as a rule prepared to supply the wants of the average citizen in a satisfactory manner and at prices as reasonable as obtain elsewhere.

With a view to obtaining information as to this matter, a reporter of The NEWS made the rounds of several of our business establishments during the past week, and the result of his investigations is partially given below.

Dry Goods.

Here it was found that, notwithstanding the fact that the stock is limited as compared with the large establishments of the near-by city, the chances of one's getting a required article on demand are nearly as good as in the larger place, when the ordinary experience of the shopers in going from one store to another in search of a particular kind and quality of goods is considered. In some cases the price in the local store is below that asked in Los Angeles. Here, for instance, is a blanket the price of which is three dollars, while in the larger city it retails for fifty cents more. Percalines are selling for twenty cents a yard against twenty-five in the city. Kimono flannels, twelve and a half cents against the Los Angeles price of fifteen cents. Cotton batting, ninety-five cents, which in Los Angeles costs a dollar or more. On a number of articles there is a difference of a cent a yard in favor of the home merchant.

Hardware.

Here is a business in which it is fair to assume that the Glendale establishments—both of which carry a large and varied stock—can and do compete all along the line with the stores of the larger city. It rarely happens that a local hardware concern fails to get any bill upon which it bids, and this fact is well known to local contractors and builders who have tried it, and who as a rule deal very generally with the home stores. Dealers here and in Los Angeles buy their goods direct of the same wholesalers. Expenses here are much less than in the city; rent, help and nearly every other item connected with running the business can be obtained here at lower rates, and the customer necessarily gets the benefit of it.

Groceries.

That which is said above in regard to the hardware merchant getting bills of goods which he figures on applies to some extent to the grocery business. In the case of a few large buyers, ranches, hotels, etc., when a large bill is presented to the local dealer to figure on, the result is that he usually gets the order. But here, as elsewhere, he cannot afford to sell five cents' worth (and deliver it) as cheaply as he can the large quantity. Fruits and vegetables, particularly when grown in the neighborhood, as many used in the local market are, are cheaper here than in the city, and they are superior in quality, because fresher. In these perishable products the large dealer can usually furnish stuff which has deteriorated through age for a low price, but the purchaser must be content with an inferior article. The local grocer sometimes has these "bargains," but not so frequently as his larger competitor. A lady came into a local store recently and in a general way stated that she found prices higher here than in Los Angeles. Among other articles quoted she mentioned potatoes, and stated that she had bought a certain number of pounds there of a peddler for a price lower than asked here. Asked if she saw them weighed, she said she had not; on the contrary, they were measured, and the seller said that they weighed so and so; as a matter of fact, the measure she received them from would not contain the number of pounds that she supposed she was getting! The grocer handles staple goods which cost the retailer the same wherever he is located, freight only causing the variation. Sometimes the large storekeeper takes a small percentage of his stock and puts the price down for a day to bed-rock prices, advertising that fact extensively, but the average buyer makes up for the low price on that particular article by buying something else at a price over the average. The service given by the local merhcant is something to be considered as of equal importance with the prices. Purchases made in Los Angeles when brought home are frequently unsatisfactory (an experience common to buyers everywhere), and their return is attended with much trouble and annoyance, so much so that the ordinary citizen prefers to "let it go this time." The local dealer is usually the proprietor, and feels a personal responsibility which makes him anxious to give satisfaction, a feature entirely absent in the deal when a Los Angeles establishment is involved in the transaction.

FURNITURE.

In this business there are many "tricks of the trade" which the big dealers can take advantage of, taking advantage of the customer at the same time. For instance a local dealer has an Axminster rug which he has priced at $19.00; an advertisement in a Los Angeles paper offers the same thing for $12.00, but it is not the same thing, being an article greatly inferior. Usually in ordering furniture from the big establishment you buy by sample, you do not see the actual piece which you will have delivered to you. The sample, of course, is perfect but in the general lot are many imperfect pieces and as you are a country buyer, the chances are good for your securing some of the "undesirables." Here again you have in the local establishment the personal guarantee of the dealer and are protected in your dealings with him, as he is a fellow-townsman and cannot afford to deal otherwise than fairly with you. As for prices—well, the local dealer courts comparison and the relative smallness of his stock need not deter you from trying him on a large order, as he is connected by telephone with the wholesale establishment and can secure for you whatever that concern has in its warehouse. The local dealer is usually accomodating; sometimes the lady of the house finds at the eleventh hour that she is short of chairs or even tables for use at a social function and she appeals to the local dealer to temporarily accommodate her. He does not often fail her, but he does in such cases reasonably expect that when she wants to buy a bill of goods in his line she will at least give him a chance to bid on it.

MEAT MARKET.

Here again there is no reason why the local dealer should charge more for his goods, for all buy of the same wholesale establishment, and he does not on an average ask more than the Los Angeles dealer. There is one thing he does not do, he does not keep five or six grades of meat. There is lower priced meat to be obtained at the city shops, in fact, they can give you any inferior quality that you desire. It does not pay the outside dealer to handle some of the grades of meat that the city shops offer, indeed the housekeeper would not buy some of it at home, although thinking it a bargain if obtained in Los Angeles. Local dealers claim that they are handling meat at a less percentage of profit now than at any time in years past.

SHOES AND CLOTHING.

On the same grade of shoes the prices are the same as in Los Angeles or somewhat lower on account of less expense in running the business and the results of dealing with the home store are usually more satisfactory, as it is an easy matter to remedy mistakes. The big stores are in too much of a hurry to get rid of one and lack the motive which impels the local dealer to give the best satisfaction. Although there is no store in Glendale which deals exclusively in men's clothing, there are several places where lines of this most necessary article are kept and it will be found that as in other cases the same grade of goods costs the same or less than in Los Angeles. One house represents a large eastern concern which does a large and satisfactory business in suits made to measure and the quality and price will stand comparison successfully with the establishments in the near-by city.

BOOKS, STATIONERY, ETC.

This line is well represented in Glendale, the stock is not large but is strictly what it purports to be. Take the periodicals alone as an illustration of what the average citizen can do to help the local dealer. If all the magazines, for instance, which are bought by local people were purchased here, that one item would mean quite a desirable and profitable trade in itself, but the large proportion of them come from outside. The purchaser of books can order them through the local dealer provided the latter has not got them in stock and every order however small, helps.

The list given above represents only a few lines of business taken at random, many others might be cited of stores in Glendale dealing in other lines which citizens generally can well afford to patronize more than they do. To sum up we find:

Second, the service is superior.

Third, the dealers are more reliable, not speaking of them as individuals, but of the fact that being in closer touch with their patrons, they naturally are impelled to exert themselves to please.

Fourth, the quality of goods averages higher, the best is not better than the best elsewhere, but there is not the same proportion of inferior goods kept in stock.

The moral of it all is: Buy at Home. It Pays. And don't forget the local paper, give it your support and help it to help the community.

GLENDALE, CAL., NOVEMBER 18, 1910

The pressure of advertising has crowded out a number of news items this week for which we apologize to our readers.

Among the many things we have to be thankful for, now that the election is over, is the absence of the picture of Hiram Johnson from the front page of numerous contemporaries.

The San Diego Herald notes the fact that California is the only state that acted in accordance with Roosevelt's advice in the late election. Is the Colonel most effective at long range?

Monrovia, with a population of four thousand people, expects in a short time to spend half a million dollars in improvements, consisting of sewer system, water system and school houses.

The silence of the Los Angeles newspapers in regard to the investigation being made by the special grand jury into the Times office tragedy, begins to be noticeable and is greatly to their credit.

By an error in mixing up linotype lines in last week's issue, the article on "Good Roads" on the first page, appeared as "Contributed," which was incorrect. In the same issue the reference to the "Isle of Wright" is further evidence of the proofreader's fallibility.

Our congratulations to brother Randall of the Highland Park Herald, who was elected a member of the assembly from his district by a handsome majority. We now look to see some legislation put into effect which will make it a felony, at least, to become delinquent on the books of the local newspaper.

The report of a committee of five, appointed by the Alhambra Board of Trade to attend the recent meetings in Los Angeles to discuss the question of disposition of Owens river water and power, has been rendered, and accords identically with the views heretofore expressed in this paper. The report concludes as follows: "It will, in the opinion of your committee, be necessary for the City of Los Angeles to make terms with the proposed portions of the country it hopes to annex, and there is no great need for any precipitant rush to throw ourselves into the arms of Los Angeles at this time. To make her aqueduct plan a success, she will need our assitsance. The obligation will rest upon her, rather than upon ourselves."

GIVE THANKS.

The president has issued his proclamation, the last Thursday in November approaches and the turkey is rapidly growing fit! Back yonder some three hours nearer to the rising sun, the yellow pumpkins lie agleam among the rows of corn. Along the top rails of the old worm fence the gray squirrel scurries to the shelter of the hickory tree. The black crows hover overhead making slow progress against the chill autumn wind that causes the taller trees to sway hither and thither while the hickory nuts are dropping musically on the leaf carpeted earth. The leaves are sifting down through the chilly air, all gorgeous in rich hues which nature gives in compensation for their return to earth! But that is "back in Pennsylvania," or Ohio, or—well almost anywhere east of the Mississippi. Certainly it is not here "By the shores of the sunset sea," where the tall Sierras are! But the causes for thankfulness are here piled up from mountain top to ocean's sands and filling all the spaces of the glorious air between. The land of promise and of destiny, only changed in spots by the handiwork of man, the great stretches of it unchanged and unadorned. A land to be proud of and be thankful for, but so is that land of the "Back Yonder," where the chill of autumn is in the air and the dead leaves are falling. But for us this is the home land and the best land and for all that it means to us who love it, let us give thanks!

FOR THE PUBLIC GOOD.

As will be noticed by the readers of this week's issue of the NEWS, it is very much of a "Buy at Home" number. Our enterprising merchants have availed themselves of the opportunity offered by the publication and distribution throughout the valley of our extra edition of fifteen hundred copies to call the attention of the public to the fact that Glendale is supplied with up-to-date concerns capable of ministering successfully to the wants of the seven thousand or more people whose homes are in this immediate neighborhood. The fact should be borne in mind by our people that a dollar spent in the home community is a contribution to the common fund in which every citizen has an interest, indirect probably, but still an interest which confers some degree of benefit upon every one interested in the home community. The merchant whose efforts to serve his patrons receive substantial tokens of appreciation, is enabled to return to the community at least a portion of that which he receives. Directly he returns more in the payment of his taxes as his stock of goods increases, and indirectly he may contribute far more than the taxes which he pays. There is another feature of the matter which should not be overlooked, and that is that the successful business man becomes, perhaps unconsciously, imbued with a spirit of loyalty to the place of his choice which would hardly know development if his efforts in a business way were unsuccessful. This really means after all more than anything else to the growth and development of a city. Upon the merchants of the town falls the heavy burden of all public enterprises in their community. They not only pay their proportion of the necessary taxes but in innumerable ways they are taxed indirectly for the common good. They cannot pay this tax in liberal measure unless the support they receive from the people at large is liberally given. It must be conceded by all thoughtful people that the benefit of the dollar put in circulation in the home community is widely diffused and is not confined to the one transaction that causes it at the time to change ownership. The great leaven of the community as far as material growth is concerned, is that which is commonly known as "Public Spirit," the motive which inspires the citizen to spend money, time and effort for the common good and not merely for the selfish and personal consideration of the moment. The good citizen is public spirited, not contented with doing things for himself and his own immediate family or friends, but inspired by a higher ideal of duty, willing to contribute freely of all that he has for the general good. This is the spirit of harmony, of generous disinterestedness, the spirit that impels us to build and not tear down, to move forward and upward, not back!

How to Get Well and Stay Well

THE CAUSE AND CURE OF DISEASE

By DR. L. L. DENNY

Editor "Little Sermons on Health"

For many ages man has been taught that the stomach should be used as a filtering and distribution point for poisonous medicines and vile drugs. Mankind has thoroughly tried this illogical method and is still sick and diseased. Therefore, he has reached a necessary conclusion—old methods are wrong—the new must be substituted for the old.

Intelligent mankind is demanding something different and better. In order to answer this demand, to fulfill the crying need of the century, a revolutionary system of procedure has been developed.

The entire theory of this new, yet old system of healing, requires, in explanation, just two words—teach and adjust.

The last word means to set right; to fix; to restore to the normal. The word teach, in this relation, means to learn how to keep well and how to permanently retain this normal condition of adjustment and health.

With the primer explanation given, it is necessary to elaborate.

First—The body is a machine. Like all other machines, when used roughly, it gets out of adjustment. When the body is sick and diseased it is out of adjustment and, like all other machines, it must be adjusted to the normal.

Within the body is a great network of nerves. There are sixty-four large cerebro spinal nerves, each containing several million of tiny nerve filaments. These nerves carry the life impulse. All the organs and tissues receive life and power through these nerves. They all center in the back.

THE NERVE SWITCHBOARD OF THE BODY.

The backbone is the foundation of the body.

It is the nerve switchboard.

It is composed of twenty-six bones, with a large canal through the center for the passage of the spinal cord, and with little notches on each side, which form openings, for the exit of the branching nerves. Between the vertebrae are cartlaginous pads or cushions which give suppleness to the spine, hold the bones apart and regulate the size of the little openings through which the nerves pass. It is the wearing away and thinning of these cartilaginous elastic cushions which so often throws the structure of the spine out of adjustment. When they wear thin, the bones come closer together, the nerve impulse is obstructed and disease results.

The brunt of any shock, fall, accident or indiscretion in our manner of living always affects the spine. All the great muscles of the body are attached to the spine. It is the most important part of our structural anatomy. It is used and abused continually. The business man will sit bent over his desk year after year. The lady of the house will sweep, lift, overwork, sit collapsed instead of relaxed. The children will sleep in a crooked, cramped position, jump, have innumerable falls and accidents. In a thousand and one ways we disobey nature's laws. No wonder the body gets out of adjustment, and no wonder so many people have curved spines and displaced vertebrae. And when vertebrae are displaced nerves are impinged, and the impulse which flows through them is shut off.

Water cannot flow through a hose with a rock upon it. Neither can nerve impulse and power flow to the kidneys, heart, bowels, stomach, liver, or any other organ, or tissue, when a displaced bone is pinching the nerve and obstructing the flow of vitality.

Pressure upon nerves, obstructing the flow of life impulse to the organs, is the cause of disease. The only logical way to restore health is to remove this cause.

THE ART AND PHILOSOPHY OF VERTEBRAL ADJUSTMENT.

It must not be imagined that correcting a displacement is a serious thing. It isn't. The writer in giving over 24,000 adjustments has corrected many thousands of displaced vertebrae. The average individual carries from seven to twelve spinal displacements. A displacement simply means that the little cartilaginous pads, between the bones of the spine, have been slightly thinned, just as a leather washer, through continuous use, wears thin. This allows the bones to come closer together, the joint loses in part its articulation and causes a subluxation or displacement which is corrected without the least inconvenience to the patient. The method of application is purely scientific. Babies a few hours' old to adults of four score are adjusted with the utmost ease.

But you say: "I have no pain in my back." Granted; but if you have disease in any organ, you do have displacements in your spine. There are three kinds of nerves having their exit from the spine: Motor, the nerves of motion; Sensory, the nerves of sensation, and Vital, the nerves of function. If the pressure is upon the motor or vital nerves there is no pain. If it happens to be upon the sensory nerves there will be plenty of tenderness or pain. If the vital nerves to the bowels, kidneys, eyes, throat or any other organ or tissue are impinged, some form of disease in those portions will develop, although there will be no great pain at the seat of the trouble in the spine. A grounded light wire will not be noticed, but the lights in the distant building go out just the same. If the pressure is upon the sensory nerves you have pain, neuralgia, headaches, acute inflammation, sciatica, lumbago, neuritis, pains in the eyes, heart, stomach, or some portion of the body, depending upon the particular sensory nerves impinged. If the pressure is upon the motor nerves, sensation is normal, the functioning of the organs is normal, but the motion of the legs, arms or some portion of the body is affected. If the pressure is extremely heavy, it will affect the vital, motor and sensory nerves simultaneously The symptoms are severe in proportion to the gravity of the pressure.

THE CAUSE AND CURE OF DISEASE.

The cause of disease is abnormal pressure upon nerves, and absolutely the only way to remove this cause is to take this pressure off, free the nerve channels and give nature the opportunity of sending a full supply of life-giving nerve impulse to the diseased organs and tissues and disease will be no more.

We have now discussed the subject of adjustment. When properly adjusted the body is in health; but what does it amount to if it does not permanently retain this normal condition. Therefore, after lending rational assistance, we must do something more—teach the patient how to retain that which he has regained.

The child should be taught the laws of right living. The child's mother and father, aunts and uncles should also be taught how to live right. It will add years to their life. It will enable them to keep well.

To promulgate common sense principles of correct living, this new order of things does not trust to oral instructions alone. We give to each patient a special course of fifteen lessons embracing the principles necessary for the care and welfare of the body.

However, the all important question is, how to get well? In the above explanation this question has been definitely and accurately answered. We must lend rational assistance to nature, for nature, not man, does the curing.

SCIENTIFIC DIAGNOSIS.

It has always seemed rational and reasonable to the writer that any system of healing which claims to locate and remove the cause of disease, should be able to do so without the necessity of prying into the past; having symptoms enumerated, or asking questions of any nature.

Surely if a practitioner can eliminate disease, he should be able to find it.

The new system of nerve and spinal diagnosis is absolutely scientific and accurate. Without asking questions or considering symptoms, the underlying cause of disease is specifically located and quickly removed. The cause of pains, inflammation, nervous and organic affections is accurately traced and located, and the symptoms are enumerated as they really are. In this new order of things you get well and stay well.

No charge is made for examination. You are invited to call and investigate every phase of the principles and facts herein advanced. Consultation or examination obligates you in no way.

Call between the hours of 10:30 and 12:30, 1:30 and 4:30. Thursday afternoons and Sundays excepted. Office phone F3435. Dr. L. L. Denny, 908-9-10 Broadway Central Building, 424 South Broadway, Los Angeles, Cal.

The Professional View.

An English physician of whom many stories are in circulation may not be as unsympathetic as a recent anecdote seems to make him. He is a specialist on all sorts of mental disturbances and the fits, spasms and convulsions which sometimes accompany them. One of his patients, a most excitable person, if suddenly alarmed or distressed, would fall into a curious comatose state from which she could not be roused until the effect of the shock had passed. The physician had been summoned again and again, but it always happened that he was away from home at the time, and before he arrived on the scene of action the patient had recovered. At last one night he was summoned and arrived at the house while the woman was still unconscious. He hurried upstairs and into the room where she was lying on the couch. He looked at her, and an expression of interest overspread his face.

"Now, this," he said in his most cheerful tone—"this is something like!"

Whistler's Ways.

It was Whistler's custom when drowsy to go deliberately to sleep, no matter where or what the circumstances might be. At one dinner party his gentle snore suddenly aroused his neighbor, who nudged him violently with his elbow. "I say, Whistler," he protested excitedly, "you must not sleep here!"

"Leave me alone!" snapped Whistler. "I've said all I wanted to. I've no interest at all in what you and your friends have to say."

One evening he was my guest at dinner at a hotel. Edwin A. Abbey was also there. Right after dinner Whistler went calmly to sleep. On the way to the theater he enjoyed another nap in the cab, and he slumbered peacefully through the greater part of the play. The next morning he blandly asked me: "What did Abbey have to say last night? Anything worth while?"—Century.

"Charms" in Cornwall.

Cornwall, England, is a county of "charms." "The passing of children through holes in the earth, rocks or trees, once an established rite, is still practiced in various parts of Cornwall," wrote Thomas Q. Couch about fifty years ago. "With us boils are cured by creeping on the hands and knees beneath a bramble which has grown into the soil at both ends. Children afflicted with hernia are still passed through a slit in an ash sapling before sunrise, fasting, after which the slit portions are bound up, and as they unite so the malady is cured. The ash is indeed a tree of many virtues. Venomous reptiles are never known to rest under its shadow, and a single blow from an ash stick is instant death to an adder. Struck by a bough of any other tree, the reptile is said to retain marks of life until the sun goes down."

Halley's Comet.

A French scientist declares that Halley's comet was known to the authors of the Talmud long before Halley came into existence. This French scientist quotes from the Talmud: "Two wise men of Palestine, Gambiel and Joshua, made a voyage on the sea. The first had brought with him bread to eat. The second one in addition had brought flour. When Gambiel had eaten all his bread he asked him for flour, saying to him, 'How didst thou know we should be so long on our journey that thou didst bring flour?' To which Joshua did answer: 'There is a very bright star which appeareth every seventy years and which deceiveth mariners. I have thought that perchance it might surprise us during our voyage, lead us astray and thus prolong our voyage on the sea; hence it is that I have provided myself with flour.'"

The Falkland Islands.

The Falkland islands are among the least known and most out of the way corners of the widely scattered British empire. They form a sort of British suburb of the south pole, some 500 miles from the antarctic end of America, Cape Horn. A former governor of the Falkland islands, the late Sir William Robinson, used to say that he would have committed suicide while there if he could have found a tree tall enough to hang himself on.—London Standard.

How Like a Man!

Mrs. Nocknoodle—Oh, Norris, if you would always be as good and gentle and kind as you are at this moment how happy we might be! Mr. Nocknoodle (losing his temper instantly and bellowing at the top of his voice)—Do you mean to say, madam, that I am not always as good and kind as I am at this moment?

Outdone.

Jones—Yes, sir; that boy of mine is a wonderful piano player. Why, he can play with his toes! Brown—How old is he? Jones—Fifteen. Brown—I've got a boy at home who can play with his toes, and he is only one year old.

Liquidising.

"Dry work this speechmaking."

"Well, I've drunk in every word you've said."

"Ah! Making a draft of my speech?"—Lippincott's.

"BACK TO THE FARM"

XIII.—Rural Education—The District School.

By C. V. GREGORY.

[Copyright, 1910, by American Press Association.]

NINETY per cent of all the country boys and girls never get any education beyond that given them in the country schoolhouse. Obviously the problem of education for country life is the problem of the district school.

The problem of the increasing cost of living is not so much to be solved by raising more corn and hogs as it is by raising better boys and girls. A crop of boys and girls brought up to love the country and appreciate its possibilities will do much to postpone the coming of the day when the United States will be too big to feed itself.

There are too few real country schools in the United States today. There are too many imitations of town schools. Too many of the teachers are girls from town. They come out on Monday morning and go back on Friday night. They have none of the spirit of the country, and they endure the country school for the meager wages they receive. They are longing for the day when they may get positions in town schools.

While this condition exists the rural school cannot be a success. If the country is to have a life of its own, as it already has in many localities, that life must be most manifest in the school. The fault is not primarily with the teacher, but with the system. The chief fault with the rural schools is that there are too many of them. In Iowa there are 278 schools with fewer than five pupils each. There are 2,358 schools with an average of fewer than ten pupils. The schools have been established with the idea of numbers rather than quality. There is a schoolhouse every two miles with monotonous regularity, whether there are any pupils or not. Under such conditions a large share of the school funds is used in maintaining the small schools. The result is cheap teachers, poor schoolhouses and meager equipment.

GOOD JUDGES OF CORN.

The most advanced rural communities are getting around this difficulty by consolidation. In some places two schools are brought together, in others three or four or half a dozen. One good, well equipped schoolhouse takes the place of several poor ones. Fewer teachers are needed, and the money can be used to hire better ones. A plot of ground can be purchased for a school garden, and the schoolhouse can have trees and a lawn.

Local pride has been one of the obstacles in the way of consolidation. The patrons of a school district dislike to have their schoolhouse taken away even though there are but two or three pupils of school age in the district. Local pride is a commendable thing. There is just as much local pride in a consolidated district, but it is a little wider in its scope. The pride based upon a modern consolidated school has much more foundation than the pride that objects to having a dilapidated, poorly attended schoolhouse removed.

The question of getting pupils to and from school has been a troublesome one in some localities. The coming of better roads is doing much to solve that. Even in the largest consolidated school districts the bulk of the pupils are within two or three miles of the schoolhouse. Often stables are provided near the schoolhouse, where the pupils from the corners of the district can keep their horses. More often the children are hauled in covered wagons at the expense of the district.

The consolidated rural schools are developing a system of education all their own. They are no longer imitators of the city schools. They are of the country and for the country. Objection has been made to the introduction of agriculture into the rural schools on the ground that the courses are already crowded. There is some ground for this objection in the old fashioned district school. In the consolidated school better grading is possible, the pupils learn a thing well when they go over it, and endless repetition is unnecessary. Every one who has attended a district school remembers the endless routine of selections in the reader, which must be gone over time and again until they could almost be read without looking at the book. Arithmetic was much the same. Often there was a new teacher each term, and she went on the principle that the advanced class should be put back to fractions to start with. History was another endless circle. Geography was a list of towns and seas to be memorized.

In the consolidated school the work is systematized and made more thorough. The time saved can go to some of the newer branches which relate to agriculture. It is not the actual agriculture taught in these schools that makes them the most effective, however. It is the spirit of the farm that is injected into the other studies. The modern arithmetic has lost most of its ponderous and imaginary problems. Instead the problems deal with the price of corn and cattle, with the figuring of a balanced ration and with the profit on a field of corn. Physiology has been broadened. The digestion of animals is studied, together with the digestion of man. The girl learns the need of a balanced ration for people at the same time that her brother is learning the necessity of the same kind of ration for stock. The principles that underlie both are the same.

Geography deals with products more than with places. The pupils learn where the various articles of commerce come from and why each country is adapted by nature to certain industries. The boy takes added interest in his class when he learns that the binding twine that is used for his father's binder comes from the Philippine Islands or that most of the sugar he eats on his bread at lunch time comes from the German beet fields. The details of land formation are studied in the streams and hills of the school district, and a study of soils is brought in at the same time. These outdoor excursions add to the interest of the work and quicken the children's power of observation.

When all the time necessary has been given to the routine studies there is still plenty left. A little botany can be given. The pupils can study the forms of flowers and plants and the mystery of growing things. Usually the school has a garden of ample size. Here the pupils can spend part of the time in summer, when the pleasant weather makes the study of books irksome. They can study the different seeds and plants at first hand and learn things from this close observation which they never could obtain from books. In the spring before work in the garden is possible germination boxes can be started indoors and the beginning of the life of the plant studied. Often a small shop and a few tools are provided, and the boys are taught to saw and plane and hammer to some effect.

The success of this modern district school education has been proved beyond a doubt. One of the foremost localities in the country in this movement is Page county, Ia. The work began there in 1907 under the leadership of Miss Jessie Field, a county superintendent, whose motto, "We believe in the country boys and girls," has become famous the country over. Page county set to work to give the country boys and girls a better chance. One of Miss Field's first acts was to distribute a large number of tulip bulbs to all the schools in the county. In making the flower beds and planting the bulbs the children became interested in growing things. They became interested in improving the school grounds and the schoolhouse.

The teachers of Page county are interested in rural schools. During the past year several of the rural school teachers refused positions in town at higher salaries. They were too deeply interested in the rural work to forsake it. With a teacher like that a school cannot help but be successful. The patrons are coming to appreciate these teachers, too, and are giving them better salaries, more equipment and more moral support.

The county superintendent bought a Babcock tester and sent it around from one school to another. The boys learned to test milk, and their fathers learned that some of their cows were not so good as they had thought. The boys were taught to judge corn and to make germination boxes for testing seed corn. They learned to pick out one weed seed from another and which were the most to be feared.

TYPICAL RURAL SCHOOL, BARE AND CHEERLESS.

At the national corn show in Omaha in 1908 Miss Field won the automobile that was awarded to the best rural school exhibit. Miss Field, several of her teachers and some of the brightest boys in the county attended the short course at the agricultural college in 1909. "I find that I've got to learn more about corn," Miss Field said. "My boys are getting ahead of me." She did so well that she won an expert judge's certificate. Her boys won the seventy-five dollar gold medal that was given for the best boys' judging team in the state. Her teachers went back with new ideas to put into effect.

LET'S ALL GET IN LINE.

Booming One's Town Brings In Big Returns For the Money Spent.

"Town boosting" is a phase of advertising that has been developed in comparatively recent years. It is true that many years ago there were a few enterprising cities that spread broadcast alluring statements of their advantages, but this advertising was done more in the interest of real estate dealers than for the general good of the community. These efforts, too, were sporadic and without system. Today there are hundreds of cities all over the country that are conducting systematic, thoroughgoing advertising campaigns and they are getting big returns from the money spent.

Aside from getting new residents and industries, the advertising of a town is a mighty good thing in another way, says the Merchants' Record and Show Window. It develops a loyalty and enthusiasm and a pride in home institutions that is worth a good deal to the merchants of the city. When a lot of enthusiastic business men keep hammering away at the fact that "this is the best town in the state, or the United States," people after awhile absorb some of the "boosters'" enthusiasm—they begin to see the doughnut instead of the hole.

They find many virtues where before they only saw faults and before long a lot of chronic "knockers" are transformed into "boosters." A well developed local pride among its citizens is one of the most valuable assets a town can have. It is the strongest possible antidote for the mail order complaint; it keeps money at home and benefits everyone in town; the merchant most of all. By all means, every town, no matter how large or how small, should have a "Booster club."

KILL OFF THE WEEDS.

Baltimore's Method of Removing Them From Her Streets.

Weeds along the roadside, in streets and unused corners are eyesores to any town and should be destroyed as soon as possible to prevent them from spreading.

The street cleaning department of Baltimore has been using a weed killer which in efficiency and promptness is all that can be expected, as is claimed, though the owner of a flock of ducks which were allowed to run at large and forage in the gutters of a certain section thinks it is too "killing," since every duckling who came in contact with the mixture was destroyed, to the indignation of the owner, who claims so dangerous a mixture should not be used. The liquid is described as a mixture of bicarbonate of soda and arsenic. A 20 per cent solution of the two chemicals is diluted with forty times its bulk of water, and the weeds to be killed are sprayed with the mixture. If the weeds are very high they are mowed down first.

The liquid is applied over the ground, and the roots are destroyed. The street cleaning people say without such a composition it would be impossible, except at great expense, to remove weeds from the streets and that as it is used only in solution there is no danger of humans getting any of it. Of course chickens or ducks roaming at large might drink some of the water leaking from the street sprinklers. The health department comes to the conclusion, therefore, that the mixture may be continued in use. If its composition is given right it may be worth knowing.—Gardening.

Cleaning Up a Town.

City Marshal Hanes of Mount Pleasant, Tex., has made a complete canvass of the city and has notified every householder and business concern that premises must be kept in a sanitary condition throughout the summer. All weeds must be kept cut, garbage barrels screened and all offal and debris of every nature must be burned. Mr. Hanes states that he will arrest all parties who violate the city ordinances in regard to sanitation.

HOUSING REFORM DON'TS.

Don't tolerate cellar dwellings.

Don't legislate merely for the present.

Don't tolerate the lodger evil. Nip it in the bud.

Don't attempt to legislate first and investigate afterward.

Don't permit privies to exist in any town. Compel their removal.

Don't permit houses unfit for human habitation to be occupied.

Don't let your town become a town of tenements. Keep it a town of homes.

Don't permit any new houses to be built that do not have adequate light and ventilation and proper sanitation.

Don't imagine there is no necessity for action because conditions in your town are not as bad as they are elsewhere.

Don't cease your efforts when you have passed a good law. Eternal vigilance is not only the price of liberty, but of all progress.—Lawrence Veiller in Survey.

The Scrap Book

Overtalked.

A negro in Mississippi who was to be tried for murder promised the prosecuting attorney to plead guilty. The time came for trial. The prosecuting attorney had no witnesses. He thought none were necessary. While the other business of the court was being cleared up a local lawyer sat down by the negro and asked, "Do you want to get out of this?"

"Yassir; reckon I does."

"Have you got $5?"

"No, sah, but I kin git it."

So the negro raised the five and gave it to the lawyer, who told him to say nothing, but when the judge asked him to plead, to plead not guilty instead of guilty.

The negro was arraigned. He pleaded not guilty.

"Look here, you black scoundrel!" yelled the prosecuting attorney, "what do you mean by that plea? Didn't you promise me a dozen times you would plead guilty?"

"Yassir, I done promised that," replied the negro, "but I reckon I done overtalked myself."

Maskers.

Hope, the great explorer;
Love whom none can bind,
Youth that looks before her,
Age that looks behind,
Joy with brow like summer's,
Care with wintry pate,
Maskers are and mummers
At life's gate.

Power with narrow forehead,
Wealth with niggard palm,
Wisdom old, whose hoar head
Vaunts a barren calm;
Haughty overcomers
In their pomp and state,
Maskers all and mummers
At death's gate!

—William Watson.

It Was Quite Appropriate.

A famous divinity professor who was visiting in the north of England had been invited to preside at the church ceremony of the baptism of the last arrived infant in the already crowded house of a local minister. The guest gave out for congregational singing a paraphrase much favored on such occasions.

"Let us," said he, "sing from the fifth paraphrase, beginning at the second verse, 'As sparks in close succession rise.'"

To his consternation the congregation giggled.

Afterward, asking the "minister's man" what had been wrong, that functionary replied:

Easing His Mind.

Jim McCleary was an old Park row newspaper derelict who hadn't had a job in years. He depended on the largess of friends of better days, his most liberal patron being a prominent writer whom Jim had "broken in" as a cub at police headquarters. Never a week went by that he didn't "slip" Jim quarters, halves and dollars, with no expectation of ever being paid back.

Suddenly Jim disappeared from Park row. He was missing for nearly a year when his old patron walked in on him in a Broadway cafe. Jim was dressed up like a Wall street mining promoter and was "opening wine."

"Why, hello, Bill! How are you?" exclaimed Jim, and, too astonished to refuse, Bill joined him in a drink. As they were about to part Jim gave his friend another cordial handclasp and Bill felt something pressed into his palm.

"What's this for, Jim?" he asked, opening his hand and seeing it was money.

"Bill, that's that dollar I've owed you for so long," said Jim. "I've never forgotten it, and now I'm glad it's off my mind."—New York World.

Dr. Short Was Short.

When the Rev. David Short was pastor of the Penn Avenue Baptist church at Scranton he was zealous in the work of securing new members. One man, with whom he had labored exhaustively, was finally persuaded as to his Christian duty, but could not make up his mind whether to become a Baptist or a Methodist. Finally he hit upon a compromise and wrote to the doctor that he had decided to unite with the Methodists, but would like to be baptized in the Baptist church by immersion. This so exasperated the good doctor that he sent the following reply: "I regret that I cannot accommodate you, but this church does not take in washing."

He Wouldn't Interfere.

An old Scotchman went to stay for a short time, as he said, with friends of his, a young couple with no family. After living with them for some two or three weeks the young couple began to get tired of their visitor, but did not like to tell him the state of their feelings toward him, so they arranged a little plan between them as to how they would get rid of him.

"Tomorrow," said the husband, "when I come home for dinner I shall quarrel about the soup and say it is not good. In the midst of our quarrel we will appeal to our friend, and if he takes your part I will give him notice to leave the house, and if he takes my part you do just the same."

Next day at dinner the "quarrel" arose about the soup, and in the heat of the argument "uncle" was appealed to, but he coolly replied:

"Ye see, ma freens, for a' the time I intend tae be here—just a month or twa—I hae made up ma mind no tae interfere wi' ye'r hoose affairs."

Owning Your Home.

"I have always felt that upon properly appointed and becoming dwellings depends more than anything else the improvement of mankind," said Benjamin Disraeli (Earl of Beaconsfield). To sit in the evening in your comfortable armchair; to look around you and know that everything you see there is your very own and that you have obtained it all so that you practically do not feel the cost; to know also that if you, the breadwinner, were suddenly called away your home would still be your wife's or your family's—that is one of the pleasures of life, indeed. It is a pleasure which gives you new heart in your work in the world. It sends you out every morning determined to get on and to earn more money, and because of that very determination you do become worth more money.—New York Press.

A Handy Snuffbox.

A curious story is told as to how the Rothschilds supported Carafa, the composer. The latter was far from rich. His principal income was derived from a snuffbox. And this was the way of it: The snuffbox was given to the author of "La Prison d'Edimbourgh" by Baron James de Rothschild as a token of esteem. Carafa sold it twenty-four hours later for 75 napoleons to the same jeweler from whom it had been bought. This became known to Rothschild, who gave it again to the musician on the following year. The next day it returned to the jeweler's. The traffic continued till the death of the banker and longer still, for his sons kept up the tradition, to the great satisfaction of Carafa.

MYSTERIOUS ACCIDENT.

About 6:45 last Friday evening, just after dusk, Mr. Newlon, whose residence is on Jackson street just west of the Sanitarium, was found on Fourth street at the junction of Jackson, insensible and bleeding profusely from one or more injuries in the head. He had evidently laid there several minuts before he was noticed. He was taken to his home as he soon recovered sufficiently to inform those who found him of his address, and Dr. R. E. Chase attended to his injuries which proved not to be as serious as at first appeared and although considerably the worse for his injuries is rapidly recovering. He has no recollection as to what caused his wounds, but remembers getting off a car at the place where he was found. It was at first reported that he had been run down by an automobile, but it seems evident that in alighting from the car he fell against the step or some other part of it and was not noticed by the conductor-motorman in charge.

Miss Marguerite McLane of Girls' Collegiate, Los Angeles, is spending the week-end in Glendale.

RELIABLE PLUMBING.

Have Thompson figure that job, big or small. The work will be right, also the prices. 808 Fourth street.

Macdonald's Express and Transfer

DO YOU WANT A HOME?

See Freeman, 332 Brand Boulevard

He has the best, easiest and cheapest plan for building known; also the best investment operations known. Don't fail to look into these propositions.

A VALUABLE INVENTION.

Mr. J. C. Beldin and Frank D. Boothe are the patentees of a lineman's torch which promises to take the place of anything of the kind now in use. It is an alcohol lamp of brass consisting of a cylinder about two inches in diameter by five in length which can be hooked on to the lineman's belt when not in use, is provided with clamps for holding it in place on the wire where the soldering is to be done and can be ignited in an instant ready for use. The apparatus in use at present is a small gasoline furnace, cumbersome and unsatisfactory and the new invention seems to have sufficient merit to warrant it being adopted by telegraph, telephone and electrical companies generally. Mr. Booth is now in Chicago in the interest of the invention which has been perfected by Mr. Beldin.

PACIFIC ELECTRIC PUTS IN CROSSINGS.

The Pacific Electric company has had a large force of men for a week past at work on the street crossings of their railroad at Fourth, Maple and Ninth streets. A number of carloads of broken granite have been dumped and are being spread. At Fourth street, particularly, the work promises to be everything that could be desired and apparently no expense is being spared to demonstrate the thoroughness with which this corporation can do things.

THANKSGIVING DANCE

The entertainment committee of St. Mark's will give an elaborate dancing party Nov. 24th in I. O. O. F. Hall. Invitations have been issued.

CONSOLIDATION.

It is understood that the contract for the improvement of Central avenue by the highway commissioner has been awarded, and as this was the only thing delaying the filing of the annexation petition with the city trustees, it will probably be filed next Monday evening and the date of election then be fixed.

RESIDENTS MUST TRIM TREES.

A county horticultural inspector is making a tour of this place and as a consequence a large number of residents have been informed that they must cut back many of their trees, and after they are cut back they must be sprayed.

The citrus trees are receiving most attention. The pepper trees of the town are nearly all being cut back. The black scale is the cause of all this trouble.

THURSDAY AFTERNOON CLUB.

The club spent the afternoon of Nov. 10 at the Western Art Tile factory as guests of Mrs. Earnest Davids. All of the departments of the factory were open to the inspection of the ladies, after which dainty refreshments were served in the little park belonging to the factory. Unique little tile ducks were presented to each guest as souvenirs of the occasion.

The next meeting of the club will be Nov. 17, at the home of Mrs. Alfred Engelhardt, 1112 Central avenue. Miss Letta Belle Hibbey and Miss Helen Ingham will assist in entertaining. Mrs. Richard Hovey will speak on "Poets and Poetry."

MR. EDWARD AYERS CELEBRATES

Mr. Edward Ayers of 1125 Palmer avenue, one of the oldest residents of the valley, celebrated on Monday evening last, the 60th anniversary of his beginning the work of a shoemaker which he has followed almost uninterruptedly ever since. It was in Indianapolis in 1850 that Mr. Ayers as a lad of 13 began to learn his trade. For twenty-five years or more he has traveled between Tropico and Los Angeles, between his home and his shop. Before the advent of the electric road he drove a steady old nag that never failed him and he usually found time to catch a few gophers in the early morning on his home place. At 73 he is still vigorous and when the occasion offers does not attempt to resist the temptation to swing the "light fantastic toe" with almost his old-time suppleness. The special guests of the occasion were his old-time associates and newer friends in his own line of usefulness from Los Angeles, with their wives, and it goes without saying that the evening was enlivened with many a song and story and at spinning a yarn out of the whole cloth Mr. Ayers is unapproachable. Some of those present were old friends of a half century's standing. Mrs. Ayers was assisted by a few lady friends in making the evening memorable as an occasion of rare social enjoyment. The many friends of Mr. Ayers outside the charmed circle of his most honorable profession join in wishing to him and his good wife "Many happy returns of the day."

THE GIRL FROM BARTON'S RANCH

It has been a long time since the residents of the valley have been treated to such a display of real dramatic talent among amateurs as was exhibited at the show given by the Tropico Dramatic association Wednesday and Thursday evenings in G. A. R. hall. The play given was The Girl from Barton's Ranch, a drama in three acts by Frank Dumont.

All of those taking part showed marked dramatic talent, the leading characters naturally appearing the most brilliant. Mrs. P. S. Robinson as Nathalia, an adventuress and queen of the cattle thieves, was excellent, and we think her work could not have been improved upon except by one from the professional ranks. W. J. Hibbert, as Black Hawk, an Apache chief, also appeared to advantage. William Gould and Mrs. D. S. Erskine were seen in the leading roles, while Owen Rhodes carried the "heavy" end very well.

The scenery, which included a different scene for each act, was painted by W. J. Hibbert, especially for this performance.

Cast.

Harry Logan (a young adventurer and new sheriff of the county), J. W. Gould; Harvey Wesley (a fugitive from justice and leader of outlaws), Owen Rhodes; Tom Claxton (his associate), Ralph Robinson; Solomon Donohue (a wandering Hebrew in search of mazuma), John Strathem; Caleb Push (a hustler, and addicted to butting in at times), Don S. Erskine; Franklin Barton (owner of Barton's ranch), Black Hawk (an Apache chief), W. J. Hibbert; Eclipse (a colored ranchman), Ed Shipman; Wilkins, Robt. Taylor; Romero, Fred Spears, Bradley, Wm. Dutton (cattle thieves and border ruffians); Ethel Barton (the girl from the ranch), Mrs. D. S. Erskine; Bolivar (a young lady "reared" on Barton's ranch), Violet Turner; Nathalie (an adventuress and queen of the cattle thieves), Mrs. Ralph Robinson; Mrs. Caleb Push (a loving wife pursuing a loving husband), Annie Memberg. Indians, cowboys, etc.

WEST GLENDALE

Mrs. Martin is reported critically ill at her home on Pacific avenue.

Mr. and Mrs. Eugene Wilson and little son, of Berkeley, are visiting at the home of their parents, Mr. and Mrs. Thos. Woods, 1420 West Fourth street.

Mr. and Mrs. L. J. Woolley gave a family dinner at their home on West Fourth street, Sunday. Covers were laid for Mr. Allen Bullis, Mr. and Mrs. Jessie Stine, Mr. Richard Stine, Elmer and Elaine Francis.

Mrs. J. L. Russ gave a very prettily appointed dinner at her residence on Milford street complimentary to her friend Miss Rose Moore, who is soon to be married to a prominent young man of Los Angeles.

On Thursday, Nov. 10, over fifty mothers responded to invitations sent out by the Parent-Teachers' meeting of the West Glendale school, and spent one of the most enjoyable afternoons of the season.

Word has been received from Frank D. Booth now in Chicago to the effect that he is meeting with great success with his new patent and upon the arrival of his partner, Mr. J. C. Belden, will close a very large deal for the same.

Mrs. Terrill from Los Angeles was present and gave a splendid address on Patriotism. This was followed by a musical program. The beautiful picture donated by the president of the association, Mrs. Alex Mitchell, and competed for by all the different rooms, is now held by Miss Mitchell's room, having the largest percentage of mothers present.

CORRECTION.

The Home Helpers hold their meetings the first Wednesday in each month in place of the last Wednesday, as stated in last week's NEWS. This correction is made in order that any member or any one wishing to attend these meetings will not be misled as to the date.

CHURCH NOTES.

The dedication of the new M. E. church has been postponed on account of not being able to secure the seats in time.

The ladies of the church expect to give a "New England Supper" for the benefit of the church in the near future. Full account later in The News. About $8.00 was cleared at the recent social and a general good time by all was had.
